SciLin™ M30

GOOD COMBINATION

Recombinant
Human Insulin

SciLin™ M30 CONVENIENCE

Possibility of giving Recombinant Human Insulin (SciLin M30) 15 minutes before a meal, OR immediately before meal.

Recombinant
Human Insulin

SciLin™ M30 SAFETY

No significant differences in safety profile between premixed insulin analogue and premixed human insulin

Recombinant
Human Insulin

SciLin™ M30 EFFECTIVENESS

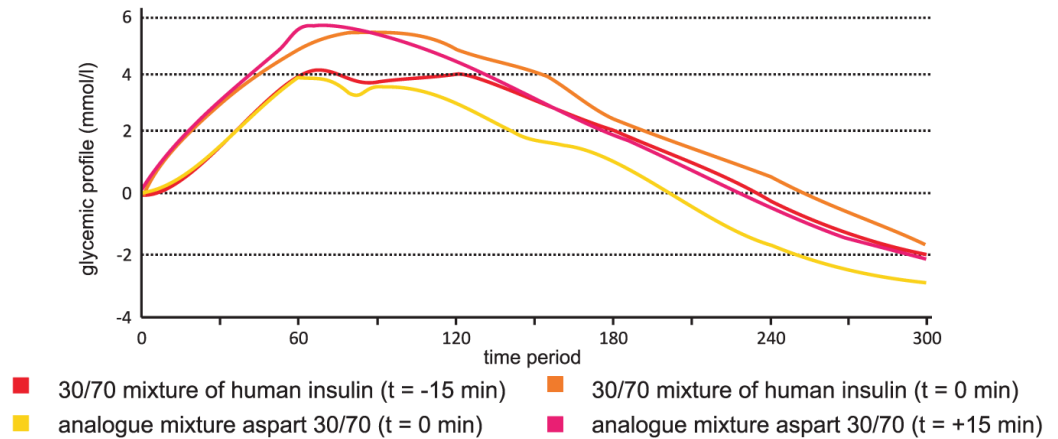

In type 2 diabetes patients with secondary failure of oral drugs:

1. significant improvement in HbA1c levels and 24hr-glucose profile
2. little effect on weight gain and risk of severe hypoglycemia
3. improves quality of life and reduces perceived inconvenience of therapy

CONVENIENCE

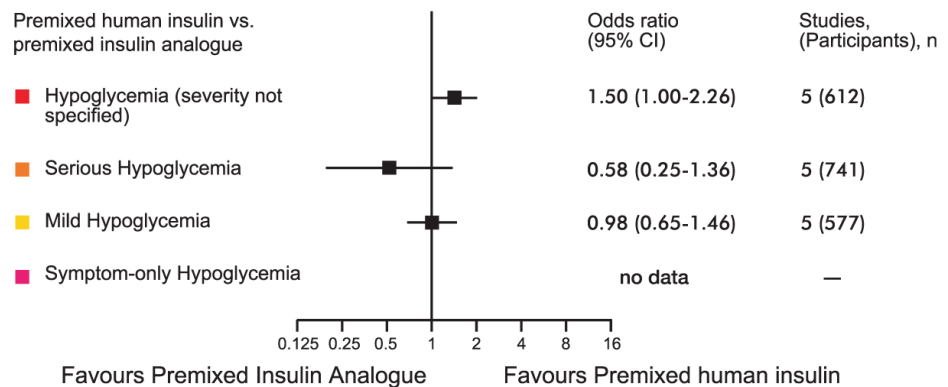

Influence of human insulin & insulin analogue on postprandial glycemia
Human insulin 30/70 given immediately and 15 minutes before meal

Kapitza C. et al. Diabetes Med 2004; 21: 500 - 501

SAFETY

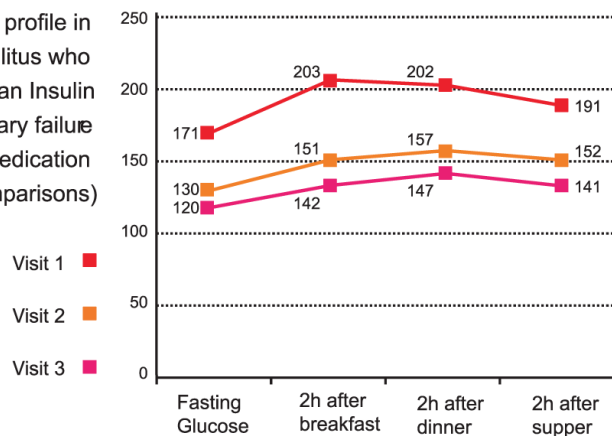

Incidence of unclassified hypoglycemia, serious hypoglycemia, mild hypoglycemia and symptom-only hypoglycemia with premixed insulin analogue versus premixed human insulin

Rehan Qayyum et al. Annals of Internal Medicine, October 2008 Volume 149 • Number 8

EFFECTIVENESS

*Self-determined 4-point glucose profile in patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus who were started on Recombinant Human Insulin (SciLin M30) due to secondary failure of oral anti-diabetic medication (p<0.001 for all comparisons)

Strojek K et al. Experimental & Clinical Diabetology, 2008 Vol. 8, No.4: 179-184
